

108 Medical Chambers

108 Medical Chambers is a highly respected, well-established, multi-discipline Harley Street medical clinic.

With numerous departments, machinery, computers and medical equipment in near-constant use their energy bills were understandably high. As with any busy medical practice, they were keen to avoid disrupting their day-to-day business when the subject of changing suppliers was raised.

We began by conducting a review of their existing bills, looking at where and when their expenditure was highest. This allows us to understand the way they used energy, when it was used most and what the makeup of those energy bills truly was.

The combined skills of our team soon gave us a complete picture of the client's energy needs. Using this information, we were able to go into the market, tapping into our diverse range of suppliers, in search of a better option.

Our professional team were able to negotiate with our suppliers on behalf of our client. Using our large-scale buying power we were able to negotiate a significantly better deal for the Chambers.

After which, we then handled the switch over, talking directly to their existing suppliers and organising the entire process for them. This meant that they were able to get on with the business of running their business, whilst we took care of their energy bills.

Having completed the switch, their new bills immediately displayed the significant cost reduction that had been achieved. The difference to their bottom line was noticeable enough for them to praise our work and thank us for the service we provided.

“I found the company very personable, professional and efficient.”

Hamish Millar, Managing Director, 108 Medical Chambers, said “I was very grateful for the introduction to Fidelity Energy. I found the company very personable, professional and efficient. Fidelity Energy helped us achieve considerable savings in our energy costs. I would have no hesitation in recommending this organisation.”
